

The command center your security company can build on.

Sirix is a North American remote video monitoring and site management command center, founded in 2016 on security expertise dating back to 2003. Sirix operates exclusively through security integrators and installers, and does not sell to end-users. Its command centers pair AI video analytics with trained bilingual operators who verify every event, act on each site's protocol, and document the outcome in a time-stamped report.

25,000+

Connected devices monitored

230+

Cities covered across the United States and Canada

50+

Security experts on staff

10+

Years of continuous operation

2

Command centers, one fully redundant

At a glance

Founded	2016, on security expertise dating back to 2003
Model	Wholesale, through security integrators only. Sirix never sells to end-users or competes with its partners for clients.
Coverage	United States and Canada
Operations	24 hours a day, every day of the year, with bilingual operators

What Sirix provides to integrators

Remote live video monitoring with AI detection and live voice intervention

Intercom and emergency intercom response for gates, doors, lobbies, and elevators

Continuous monitoring for high-risk sites

Remote concierge and site management services

Autonomous security boxes, designed and built by Sirix, available for purchase or rental

Milestones

2003	Security work begins, installing and integrating systems for commercial sites.
2007	First client connected to a video monitoring center.
2016	Sirix is founded, serving security integrators exclusively.
2021	A second, fully redundant command center comes online.
2023	The first Sirix autonomous security boxes go into the field.

Leadership

Daniel Cyr, president and CEO

Co-owner. In physical security since the early 2000s; serves on the boards of the Canadian Security Association.

Jonathan Potvin, executive vice president

Co-owner. Leads partner growth strategy across North America and oversees marketing.

Andrew Boosamra, chief financial officer

Over 25 years in executive leadership. Leads financial strategy, capital planning, and the partnerships behind international expansion.

Jean-Simon Leduc, VP of business development

Leads Sirix growth across North America. Named to the SP&T News Top 10 Under 40.

Credentials

Licensed private security agency, permit SE 20030247, publicly verifiable

Staff certified by Genetec on Omnicast and Mission Control

Leadership on the boards of the Canadian Security Association

Media contact

media@sirixmonitoring.com

Logos, photography, and bios at sirixmonitoring.com/newsroom